James Bond is probably the most famous and longest-running spy characters in movie history. He was invented by ~~Sean Connery~~ Ian Fleming, who himself worked in the Foreign Office. Connery wrote most of his novels at Goldeneye, a house he built in the north of Scotland.

James Bond's first appearance in movies was in the late 1970s when he fought against a crazy scientist in Moonraker. James Bond works for the American CIA as a double 0 agent with a license to kill. He likes fancy cars and attractive women as well as gadgets that help him in dangerous situations. These gadgets are designed by M, the head of the CIA. When James Bond goes on assignments he meets dangerous villains, who want to get the world's power.

Roger Moore was the first and probably best Bond. Daniel Craig is the current Bond. He starred first in Octopussy in 2002. The Bond girl is also a very important character. She has to be attractive and always brings luck to James Bond.
